MICHIKO INANAGA
BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Michiko Inanaga is a proud Mom to 3 amazing children, all participating in scout programs in Orange County. She is a leader in Girl Scout Troop 675 in Orange County and her purpose in life is to contribute towards all children being compassionate and impactful leaders in society.

Previously she specialized in international trade with JAL Trading Inc (a subsidiary of Japan Airlines), Honda Trading America Corporation as well as resource development with Keiro Senior HealthCare, the largest provider of retirement and end of life care especially designed for seniors in the Japanese American community.

Michiko is currently a board member of the Orange County Buddhist Church and Vice President of the Weaver Elementary PTA. She looks forward to working with other GSOC leaders to support girls of all ages and backgrounds thrive and find ways to be their best selves.

JUDY KOYAMA
BOARD DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

When Judy Koyama first started the Girl Scout program at the Orange County Buddhist Church (OCBC) over 30 years ago with just 20 Girl Scout Juniors, she had no idea that the program would grow to over 160 girls ranging from Daisies to Ambassadors. Judy wanted the girls at the OCBC to learn scouting while retaining their Japanese culture. Judy soon found that she was learning valuable leadership lessons herself - skills that she applied daily in her job with American Airlines where she retired as National Sales Manager.

Judy was a member of the Girl Scouts of Orange County Board of Directors from 2004-2010 and held the position of Board Secretary from 2007-2010. Judy was honored at the 2012 Celebrate Leadership Gala by Girl Scouts of Orange County.

Judy holds degrees from USC and the University of Vienna, Austria. She is fluent in German and conversational in Japanese. Her hobbies include photograph, crafts and travel.

Judy states, "Girl Scouts is such an important part of my life. Nowhere else can you find a place where you can impact our future in such a positive way. Giving girls the opportunity to broaden their horizons and reach their dreams is an awesome, life altering experience".

LISA PERRINE
BOARD OF DIRECTORS

As CEO of Cibola Systems, a systems integration firm based in Orange, Lisa Perrine and her team focus on the human elements of communication: the interplay between workplace culture and communication, how people experience media, and how individuals' interface with technology. Lisa approaches her work with a mixture of curiosity, creativity, and the expertise gained from designing and implementing over 2000 communication spaces. Among Cibola's current clients are Netflix, Paradigm Talent Agency, Latham & Watkins LLP, SAG-AFTRA, and Providence St. Joseph Health.

Lisa began her career in product design, working on a mix of assignments that included Airstream trailers and the first MTV studio on the west coast. In 1991 she became Cibola's CEO and completed her MBA shortly thereafter. Most recently, Lisa earned her Doctor of Education degree in Organizational Leadership at Pepperdine University. She also studied scenario planning with Global Business Network and has participated in strategic planning efforts for a number of consulting, product development, and philanthropic organizations.

Lisa and her husband Bob Kuhel live in Newport Beach where they're focused on supporting the region's underserved and vulnerable populations. Lisa has served on several nonprofit boards including St. Joseph Hoag Health; Orange County United Way; and St. Joseph Hospital. Cibola's team also supports a number of local charities through volunteer service and pro-bono consulting.

Lisa Perrine has served on the GSOC board of directors since 2016 and looks forward to a second term. She served on the Argyros Girl Scout Leadership Center task group and was instrumental in helping GSOC through the construction phase of the project. This year Lisa will focus her attention on fundraising for GSOC.
